Art Unit: 3744

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

2. Claims 1-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being clearly anticipated by Swedish Patent Publication SE 0200494-3 to Hillberg.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-16 and 18-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 5,584,188 to Tippmann et al. Tippman et al discloses the claimed invention of a liquid container and a transport unit for transporting and cooling the liquid in the container. Tap devices 22 are provided on the water circulation system. However, Tippmann et al does not disclose that the liquid being transported and dispensed is water. The type of liquid being transported and dispensed is considered to be a matter of obvious choice to one of ordinary skill in the art. No criticality or unexpected results are seen or have been disclosed for the recitation of water as the liquid to be transported and dispensed. The recitation in claims 20 and 21 of the coordination device being capable of coordinating the activities of pumping, tapping, and ordering is considered to be a functional statement of intended use and not a positive structural limitation. Furthermore, such coordination devices per se are well known for various devices. Thus, one of ordinary skill in the art would be able to adapt a coordination device for ordering or pumping or tapping as needed in the system of Tippmann et al.

5. Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tippmann et al in view of U.S. Patent No. 6,282,909 to Newman et al. Tippmann et al discloses the claimed invention except for the claimed water quality analysis device. Newman et al teaches a water system that includes a water quality analysis device or water quality sensor. See column 3, lines 44-52. Thus, it would be obvious to provide Tippmann et al with a water quality sensor, in view of Newman et al, to yield the predictable result of testing the quality of the water or other liquid being transported and dispensed.

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
